

AUTISM IS NOT A LINEAR SPECTRUM.

Many people think of autistic people in terms of severity.

But an autistic person is no more or less autistic than another. They simply may need support in different ways.

A wheel showing individual areas of support needs is a more accurate way to think of autism.